The scene of the Resurrection from which early art had shrunk.¹ was conceived in a curious manner by the thirteenth century. In contrast to the Gospel narrative which tells how, after the Resurrection,² the stone was rolled away by an angel on the morning after the sabbath, Christ is almost invariably shown rising from a tomb from which the stone has already been removed. The old masters, ordinarily so scrupulous and so faithful to the letter, had a reason for thus uniting two distinct events. There is not the least doubt that they wished to recall the deep significance which was attached by the Fathers to the removal of the stone. The stone before the tomb...
