Reviews

A whole new eBook with a brand new point of view. It is definitely simplistic but shocks in the 50 percent of the publication. I am just pleased to explain how this is the greatest ebook i have read during my very own daily life and could be he best ebook for possibly.

Excerpt: . . . percent in the first 10 months of 1998 versus the same period in 1997. Overall, import penetration grew from 24. 2 percent in the first 10 months of 1997 to 29. 5 percent during the same period of 1998. Steel imports from Japan, Russia, and Korea together accounted for 78 percent of the increase. At the same time, U. S. steel production for 1998 was at near record levels, and steel demand in the United States during 1998 was the strongest in history. Preliminary U. S. Department of Commerce figures for December 1998 indicate a decrease of 1. 1 million metric tons in steel imports entering the United States. The November-to-December change in steel imports, based on metric tonnage, reflects decreases primarily in hot- rolled sheets, plates in coil, and blooms, billets and slabs. Most recently, U. S. steel producers and workers filed antidumping petitions at the Commerce Department on September 30, 1998, on U. S. imports of hot-rolled steel from Japan, Russia, and Brazil, and a countervailing duty petition on imports from Brazil. The U. S. International Trade Commission (ITC) issued a preliminary affirmative injury determination on these petitions on November 13, 1998. On November 23, 1998, the Commerce Department issued a preliminary ruling of critical circumstances with respect to hot-rolled steel imports from Japan and Russia. Based on this finding, importers may be retroactively assessed dumping duties reaching back 90 days before the preliminary determination to November...
