Excerpt: .of labor, that is, factories and mills, and that it is necessary that the factories and mills shall become the property of the workmen. Others again say that the whole organization of life is to blame, and that it is necessary to change this organization altogether. Is this true? ABOUT five years ago, during the coronation of Nicholas II. at Moscow, the people were offered a free supply of beer, brandy, and buns. When the crowd proceeded to the place where these things were being distributed, a crush ensued. Those in front were knocked off their feet by those behind, and these were crushed by those yet farther back; and no one seeing what was happening in front, they all kept pushing and pressing each other on. The weak were overthrown by the strong, and then the strong ones themselves, suffocated by the crush and want of air, also fell to the ground and were trampled by those who were pushed from behind and could not halt. And thus several thousand people, old and young, men and women, were crushed to death. When it was all over people began to argue as to who was to blame for it. Some said it was the police; others the organizers; others that the fault was the T sar s, who had initiated the silly device of such an entertainment. People accused every one except themselves. And yet it would appear clear that only those were to...
